The Monday discussion will include examples from several films to help explain the lesson and will allow attendees to give examples of their favorite films in this genre. In Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday classes, students will watch a film and discuss: how it fits the genre, what it does different from other films in its genre, how this genre is different from other similar ones, how the film helped shape the genre it is in, and dissecting the film to talk about all the important parts of cinema within it. iPads will be used to show film technique, camera angles, lighting, and stage direction.
